MAY RETALIATE FOR BRITISH BOYCOTT

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Sept. 5.—Pressure has been renewed on the administration to force an early reply from Great Britain on the mails and boycott problems. Continuous promises of immediate action have been disregarded and all of the information reaching the state department indicates that the boycott is being made almost ironclad while the mails' delay shows very little improvement.

Now that the president has the threatened railroad strike off his hands, he is expected to press for speedy action by Great Britain and France. Since the initial boycott protest was sent forward the state department has been compiling facts to make the rejoinder which is certain to be called out by the British reply. Retaliatory measures can be put into effect if desired by this government.

First, of course, is the right given under the shipping bill to refuse clearances to vessels which have discriminated against American shippers. The revenue bill has attached to it a retaliatory clause designed to reach the British-American Tobacco Company and concerns of that character which are working to hold prices down on the tobacco products of this country. In addition the attorney general has specifically ruled that there are certain clauses of the anti-trust laws which are available for prosecution where discrimination against Americans can be shown

With these weapons available the administration is expected to make a strong effort to secure, through diplomatic means, at least, a complete revision of the boycott lists of Great Britain and France. In addition it is expected that when the reply on the mails' holdup is received here that it will be made the basis for a new and different demand inasmuch as information gathered by the agents of the state department now has shown conclusively that in the general confiscation put into effect not alone Teutonic but neutral American-owned documents of great value have been seized.

At his recent conferences with Ambassadors Page and Sharp, President Wilson was placed in possession of much important information dealing with the action of the British and French governments in trade matters.

LITTLE SUFFERING FOUND IN GERMANY

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Copenhagen, Sept. 5.—The Socialist leaders Hansen, Madsen and Osken recently visited Germany and Belgium and with four Swedish Socialists spent three weeks in studying the economic conditions of the two countries. The delegates declare they were the guests of the German social democracy.

"We did not find any actual hunger in Germany," the three Danish Socialists said today in their report. "Only in Berlin the food conditions are unsatisfactory. Outside of the capitol all kinds of foodstuffs seem to be plentiful, with the exception of fats, which are very scarce everywhere The confidence of the German nation is unshaken. Although the people desire an early peace they view the prospect of a third winter campaign calmly.

"In Belgium were were astonished to find every square foot of soil under cultivation and all factories in full operation. The harvest is enormous and will be reserved for the native population. We visited many Belgian cities, towns and villages but did not see any real suffering Generally the food conditions in Belgium are much better than in many of the larger German cities. The number of the unemployed is now about 40,000 and would be much smaller if the irreconcilables could be induced to work for the Germans.

"The destroyed Belgian towns have partly been rebuilt and as honest men we feel ourselves compelled to state that the Germans are using their genius for organization to put Belgium on her feet again as quickly as possible. All German Socialists to whom we talked are firmly convinced that the independence of Belgium is to be reestablished under the condition that the kingdom will not again permit itself to become an English-French vassal state. In our opinion the hope of the allies that they will be able to starve Germany into submission is vain and the greatest enemy of peace."

New Pacific Line.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Tokyo, Sept. 5—Before the European war the Japanese concern Mitsu Bussan Kaisha owned a few steamers which it used to transport its own products. The profits made by transporting munitions from Seattle to Vladivostock have been so great that the company has decided to enter the freight business and will inaugurate a line of steamships to ply monthly between Japan, Australia and India. Australia was formerly a large customer of Germany and Japan has already secured the lion's share of that trade.

VILLA ACTIVE AGAIN IN MEXICO

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

El Paso, Tex., Sept. 5—The Mexican Central Railway, connecting Chihuahua City with the border, was cut during the night at a point near Villa Ahumada, 120 miles south of the border. Villa followers are blamed for the destruction. Carranza railway authorities in Juarez have not learned the full extent of the damage.

At last reports Villa's main body of 700 was within marching distance of Namiquipa, once General Pershing's headquarters and now the nearest community to the southern advance possible for the punitive expedition. The bandits are within fifty miles of Pershing's southern outposts.

De facto government authorities across the river are fearful that Villa will reach an ammunition cache in the neighborhood of Namiquipa. It is officially reported that the bandit leader is short of ammunition and is making his way northward to secure several hundred rounds of cartridges buried in the hills near there.

STREET CAR STRIKE WILL BE CALLED

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Sept. 5.—The Interborough today rejected the demands of the employes' union. The union leaders announced that a strike on all the elevated and subway lines of the city would be called.

The meeting of Interborough and union officials broke up shortly after eleven o'clock when a conference of union representatives was called for three o'clock at the Continental Hotel. Organizer Fitzgerald of the Carmen's Union, issued a statement saying:

"Wet met Mr. Hedley and told him that at a meeting of the Amalgamated Association of Electric and Elevated Railway men we had agreed to ask the company to give back the contracts the men had signed and which we held injurious to their rights. Mr. Hedley refused to give back the contracts. We suggested that the matter be submitted to arbitration. but again Mr. Hedley refused. We then asked Mr. Hedley what action we could take to show that the men who had signed the contracts did so in ignorance. He said tha the only solution the company would submit to would be the filing of individual suits in the courts. We refused that suggestion because it would take too long. The question of submitting the matter to the Public Service was turned down by the company on the ground it was not qualified to consider it."

Kamen Discharged.

Practically the entire morning in recorder's court today was taken up with the trial of Paul Kamen of Moore street, on a charge of punching Fred Storm, young stepson of Albert Pross, in the face with his fist. At the close of the case Recorder Lang found Kamen not guilty and discharged him. Grant Brinnier appeared for Pross and Judge N Frank O'Reilly for Kamen. The trouble started over a chunk of ice. Young Storm claimed that one of Kamen's sons had taken his piece of ice and he went to get it. Storm, who is 14 years old, swore that Mr. Kamen had struck him in the face and given him a pair of swollen lips. A number of the neighbors were sworn but none of them saw Mr. Kamen hit the boy, and he denied he had struck the lad It was brought out that Paul Kamen, Jr., had whipped young Storm just before the trouble over the chunk of ice. Young Kamen was about the same age as the other lad.

King Drank After Horse.

By Telegraph to The Freeman

Paris, Sept. 5.—The son of a leading manufacturer of Brussels, whose two brothers have been killed at the front, tells the following anecdote, which dates from the first summer of the war:

"It had been a hot day and King Albert, who had not left the trenches for hours, was suffering from thirst. He asked for something to drink, but not a soldier had anything left. Back of the trenches a man saw a horse drinking and went over and started to pull the bucket away.

"'Don't do that,' said the king. 'Let the poor animal drink; perhaps it needs it more than I do.'

"It was not until the horse had finished drinking that the king took up the bucket and drank the few drops that remained."

POLICE WERE ONLY PRACTICING

The strange sounds leaking through the high board fence surrounding the Athletic Field this afternoon led many to stop and glance through a knot hole to see what was occuring, but they found it was only the cops practicing for the big game on September 13, when they will clash with the members of the paid fire department. Under the direction of Captain Boyd the cops put in considerable hard work and brushed up on their batting and fielding. Just what the lineup of the cops will be is being kept a dark secret for the present as the police say they don't want to frighten their opponents. Tickets for the big game are selling readily and may be obtained from members of the police force or from the firemen. The proceeds will be for the benefit of the pension funds of both departments.

SNAKE INCUBATOR PROMISES A HATCH

Impatient Mr. Eltinge Broke One Egg to See What was Inside, but Four Remain—Who Wants a Nice Little Snake for a Pet?

When Prohibition went in effect in a Southern town many years ago, according to a popular tale, the only way in which anyone could get a drink of liquor was on a physician's prescription for snake-bite, and a trained rattlesnake was kept so busy biting people that engagements were booked six weeks ahead, and the village physician finally had a nervous breakdown because he was unable to take a vacation.

No such thought, however, prompted William S. Eltinge, the John street druggist to accept The Freeman's offer last week of six nice rattlesnake eggs, but instead he was actuated partly by a desire to aid the cause of science, partly to see rattlesnakes hatch out, if the eggs were what they were claimed to be, and partly a desire to see whether John Crispell of Hurley, knew rattlesnake eggs when he saw them or whether he was "putting one over" on the Freeman.

Before the end of the present week, Mr. Eltinge expects to have four nice little rattlesnakes in his store; four of the finest, cutest, most companionable little devils that can be found in Ulster county.

Mr. Eltinge accepted the responsibility of raising rattlers on Saturday morning. He was not over-anxious to raise snakes, but took the eggs at the earnest solicitation of The Freeman, after it was explained that nobody else in town appeared to want them. He kept the eggs warm and moist, and waited developments. When no snakes appeared on Sunday or Monday, Mr. Eltinge began to be doubtful, so on Monday he broke open one of the eggs Inside he found a nice little rattler, which was not quite ready to make his appearance. This morning he found a dent in another of the eggs, the pressure against the shell having been exerted from the inside, and it is possible that the snake will leave the shell before night.

By the end of the week four little rattlers will probably be added to the snake population of the country. After they are born Mr Eltinge probably will be ready to receive offers to have the snakes removed, and then will be the opportunity for any intelligent and ambitious snake-raiser to secure the foundation for what might prove a valuable industry but in any event an industry which will furnish plenty of entertainment.

A large number of people who had read The Freeman story of the snake eggs and learned today that the eggs were on the point of hatching visited the store today and looked at them. There were no applications, however for the snakes after they are hatched Applications will be acted on in the order in which they are received.

MAN KILLED WHEN CAR STRUCK TREE

Frederick Hodinson of Orange N. J., was instantly killed at Beacon, N. Y., at 8 o'clock Monday evening when the car in which he was riding crashed into a tree and threw out him and Miss May Bell of No. 84 West Ninetieth street, New York.

Robert N. Verplanck, New York sales manager of the White Automobile Company, who was driving remained in the car, and, after it had torn through a lawn for some hundred and fifty feet and smashed itself against a second tree, was hurled out and received a bruised shoulder, a scalp wound and possibly internal injuries.

Coroner White took charge of the body and held a hearing at once. The girl testified that she had arrived on the 5:06 train from New York, and that the two men had met her at the station. They had several rounds of drinks, she said, before they set out on the fatal ride. Both she and Verplanck refused to tell anything about the dead man's family or connections. At a late hour Miss Bell and Verplanck were still held by the coroner.

NO WONDER BRIDE BLUSHED.

Those Kingston Cops Again Stir Up Some Amusement.

A well known Hudsonian motoring through Kingston the other day, was following a car gaily decorated with white ribons and old shoes, says the Hudson Republican. The procession was halted at the city limits by an officer searching the cars for children, acting under a quarantine law. "Why, we are only just married," said the blushing bride in the car ahead. "Can't help it, madam," replied the unromatic cop. The law's no respecter of persons and I've got to search your car." And he did, to the continued embarrassment of the young couple and the amusement of those who heard.

Marine Dances on Union Jack.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Tokyo, Sept. 5.—For having made a United States marine drunk on the Fourth of July at the Grand Hotel, Yokohama, and then dared him to pull the Union Jack down from the wall and dance on it—which the marine did—a German named Herrmann Wohlers has been ordered deported from Japan by the Japanese authorities. Other actions detrimental to the Allied Powers are alleged against Wohlers but the Fourth of July incident is the principal. He is a bachelor and has lived in Yokohama for three years. He followed no definite occupation. The incident of the Union Jack caused a sensation in the Grand Hotel at the time it occurred, which was in the middle of a Fourth of July ball, but everyone recognized it for a drunken lapse and nothing was said about it. The marine was arrested and is now at Shanghai awaiting trial by court-martial.

Under the play of a fountain in the feeding station is the favorite haunt of the ducks and geese. STREET GOSSIP ABOUT TOWN

It's a wise man who knows when to keep his mouth shut.

With the present short skirt fashions even a windy day has lost its fascination for the sterner sex.

Just a reminder for some one—in July, 1872, the common council passed an ordinance forbidding the burning of leaves or other refuse in the streets. Has any one heard of it being repealed? We all know it is not enforced.

Our own movies—"Foiled, or Where is the Ch-e-i-i-d," a one reeler. Scene laid on one of roads leading into city. Time the present. Cast, one quarantine cop, one man on motorcycle. Story opens with man on cycle speeding into town Suddenly the cop darts into the picture with right arm rigidly extended, a signal to stop Cyclist slows down puzzled. The following conversation follows:

"Halt in the name of the law" shouts the cop.

"I'm halted" replies the cyclist bringing his machine to a stop.

The cop walks over and glances closely at the machine, and then walks around to the other side of the motorcycle. Nothing escapes his eagle eye.

"What's up?" asks the cyclist.

"I am looking to see if you have any child under sixteen years of age with you" hisses the cop.

"There is no ch-e-i-l-d" retorts the cyclist gleefully

"Foiled" mutters the cop as he motions the cyclist to proceed.

Curtain and soft music.

It puzzles him—"It always strikes me as queer when I read in the paper of an auto skidding on a slippery pavement and then dashing up over a foot high curb and crashing into a telegraph pole" said the veteran downtown street sprinkler

"What do you mean by queer?" asked a bystander.

"I mean it's queer how the auto could skid over a foot high curb How is it done?" said the veteran as he said "Gid ap" to his team and started sprinkling up the Broadway hill.

The burning question of the hour is not whether Greece is to be drawn into the world war, but who is going to win that baseball game September 13, when the cops and firemen clash.

Just a motto—The more we gaze at the street in front of our house, and notice the manner in which the street department oiled it the more we are reminded of the motto that hangs in the office of the board of public works at the city hall, and which contains just three words "Efficiency, Honesty and Economy." Then we look at the street again and we see that an efficient job of oiling was made of a strip of roadway six feet wide, which showed the honesty of purpose in attempting to oil the street, and would have done so but undoubtedly the oil gave out, and in the interests of the third word of the motto, economy, no more oil was purchased. That explains somewhat why only part of the street is oiled in front of our house, and that part is on the other side of the street and our side is very dusty. Mayhaps next year they will oil our side of the street It should be done in the interests of efficiency, honesty and economy.

The first meeting of the American and Mexican joint commission to settle the differences between the two countries will be held Wednesday, and we know that after they finish commissioning the Mexican policy will be—the same as in the past.

While there is no doubt that another war has been averted by the present administration yet what we would like to know is what is going to be done about the American soldiers who were killed in the interest of peace in Mexico.

It is evident that even peace has its list of dead and wounded.

How Much Dust In Air?

A scientist is using an ingenious new method of ascertaining just how much dust and smoke the atmosphere contains. A ribbon of filter paper is stretched over a small slit in the side of a hollow brass cylinder, and the air is passed through the paper by exhausting the interior of the cylinder. After a half hour's exposure the ribbon is automatically moved on and a fresh surface exposed.

Some Golf Shot.

A Glasgow golfer vouches for the following: "Playing over the Cathcart castle course one evening last summer with two friends, we were approaching the fourth green, which is of the plateau type. Having played my second, I was preparing to walk toward the green when the air was rent with loud laughter and shouting. On going forward to inquire the cause of the hilarity we learned that my shot had overrun the green, passed between the legs of the player who was at the moment in the act of driving from the fifth tee (the fifth being at right angles to the fourth), knocked his ball from the tee, and his club, descending, had made a perfect shot with my ball to the edge of the fifth green. 175 yards away."—Golfer's Magazine.

Old Time Oratory Unpopular.

The definition of "oratory" is difficult, but in the public mind that form of public speaking called "oratory" is either amusing or offensive. It is suggestive of the mouthing and ranting of some old time tragedian who roared and bellowed on the stage. The public of today will stand for eloquence which bears the mark of sincerity, but the old form of "oration" with gestures of practiced grace, frequent allusion to Greek and Roman history and plentiful quotations from the poets no longer stirs men to great depths or heights.—Exchange.

Keep to the Ridges.

When tramping through a country that has many streams it is usually better to get upon the nearest ridge and follow that than to try to make your way along the course of some stream. The ridge will give you a better outlook and drier walking, while the stream may have to be crossed a number of times and, if its windings are followed, will add miles to your journey.—Outing.

Tough.

"What kind of bird do you call this, waiter?"

"A canvasback duck, sir."

THE KITCHEN CABINET

The time we now so profusely lavish away, and which flies from us so imperceptibly, will fail us; and we would be willing to give any price for one or two of those days we lose now with so much insensibility.

THINGS WORTH TRYING.

There are so many people these days who are using coarse breads that the following recipe may be found useful for variety.

Health Bread.—Take a quart of nice fresh bran, half a pint of graham flour, and the same amount of white flour, one teaspoonful of salt, two teaspoonfuls of baking powder, all sifted and well mixed together. The coarser parts should be added to the mixture from the sieve. Dissolve half a teaspoonful of soda in a tablespoonful of hot water, then stir it into a cupful (half a pint) of good New Orleans molasses, put a pint of sweet milk, one tablespoonful of melted butter and the molasses over the dry mixture and beat thoroughly. Place in pan, giving room to rise and bake for 35 minutes.

Salad Dressing That Is Different.—Take a cupful of boiling water and a quarter of a cupful of vinegar and lemon mixed; when boiling hot stir in two tablespoonfuls of flour, rubbed to a paste, with two tablespoonfuls of olive oil. Stir and cook for five minutes, then remove and pour over the well beaten yolks of two eggs, stir and mix thoroughly. Cool, stirring occasionally. When cool add a cupful of olive oil, beginning to add it by tablespoonfuls beating with an egg beater to blend thoroughly. When it is all added the dressing should be thick and smooth. Mix in a small bowl one-half teaspoonful of salt, the same of mustard and a few dashes of cayenne, add a little of the salad dressing and stir to a paste then mix well in the dressing and put in a covered glass jar. Keep in a cool place. If the oil rises to the top, pour it off and give the dressing a vigorous beating, when it will be smooth again.

Date Torte—Beat two eggs, add a cupful of sugar and a cupful of finely cut walnut meats, one small cupful of finely cut dates, one-third of a cupful of flour and a teaspoonful of baking powder, a dash of salt. Mix and put into a layer cake pan and bake in a moderate oven. Serve sprinkled with a little lemon juice and cover with whipped cream.

PADDY TRIED TO WHIP OFFICER

Saved From Walking Into Rondout Creek, Paddy Burns Attempts, With Poor Success, to Whip Quarantine Cop—Is Arrested.

Paddy Burns is "in again." This time he attempted with poor success to whip Special Officer Kaplan of the sanitary squad. Paddy resides across the creek and this morning came across to Rondout on the Skillypot. He spent all morning around the ferry, and interfered with the work of the member of the quarantine squad on duty, and was ordered to move away a dozen times.

This afternoon Paddy reappeared on the scene and the first thing he did was to attempt to walk off the dock into the creek. Evidently Paddy had heard of the sea monster and it is supposed that he had decided to swim down the creek after it. Officer Kaplan saw Paddy in time, however, and pulled him back. Paddy instead of being duly thankful turned around and attempted to beat up the officer. Kaplan, however, is no slouch and in a jiffy had thrown Paddy to the pavement and held him there while Policeman Connelly who appeared on the scene at that instant hurried forward and led Paddy to the lockup

Paddy will be araigned before Recorder Lang in the morning. From Paddy's actions it was evident that he had imbibed somethig stronger than soda water or grape juice.

BASEBALL AT LAKE HILL.

Willow Wallops Lake Hill 10 to 6 in Exciting Game.

A very closely contested baseball game was held on Labor Day on the flats opposite the Short place. There was a goodly audience of ladies composed of neighbors and friends of the Lake Hill and Willow gentlemen who formed the two nines. The line-up of the first team was as follows: Roy Lewis, Ray Ford, Ford Quick, Philip Lepo, Egbert Shultz, Andrew Brown, James Hooke, Earl Watson, Foster Carl. The line-up of the second team was Frank Temple, Walter Hoffman, Newton Reynolds, Elton Hoyt, Merritt Van De Bogart, Jason Berry, Vernon Wilbur, George Wilbur, Mr Temple, Sr Captain B. Franklin Cross acted as manager and the Rev. George W. Whyer kindly consented to act as umpire and his decisions gave entire satisfaction. The game was a tie up to the fifth inning. At the close the score stood 10 to 6 in favor of the second team. Among the features of the game was the graceful running of Jason Berry, Ray Ford's exploits as catcher; he was relieved in the box by Philip Lepo, who after a remarkable exhibition stated that he was not in good form that day, the really good pitching by Walter Hoffman, who has just returned from Waterbury—they evidently know how to play ball in Waterbury; magnificent plays threatened by Andy Brown, but unfortunately for his side they did not materialize; Ford Quick's vibrations between field and third base, but his wife said he was not up to his usual form Jimmy Hooke would have played a good game only he got it mixed with cricket. He kept score in good shape, however. Newton Reynolds and Merritt Van De Bogart lamented that more of the brilliant players—like themselves—were not present from Shady They said it would have made a difference in the result. Manager Cross would like to have played but both nines assured him they could furnish their own hot air Great brilliance was added to the occasion when the Wilbur brothers of Mink Hollow dashed up on their motorcycles The genial smile of Clarence Wolvans was missed. Nobody seemed to know where he was. Lemonade with real ice was served for the players, but the spectators were suspected of getting most of it. Among those who were present to view the game were Mr. and Mrs. A W. Ford, Mrs Jason Berry, Mrs John Martin, Miss Ella Mârtin and guest, Mrs Walter Hoffman, Miss Elizabeth DeVall, Miss Dorothy Hoyt, Miss Beulah Simons, Miss Ella Lane, Miss Irene Lewis, Miss Susan Walker, Mrs. B. Franklin Cross, Mrs. Ford Quick, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis and Miss Cook.

Feds Are Champions.

The Wilbur Feds baseball team are now the undisputed champions of the city, having defeated the Mystics in the morning game of a double-header on Labor Day The score for the morning game was 13 to 0; the afternoon game the Mystics won by the score of 8 to 5. The Feds have won four out of six games played with the Mystics and now claim the championship. Stoudt pitched both games for the Feds with Bush at the receiving end. Doyle pitched the morning game for the Mystics and McAuliffe served the slants in the afternoon, with McMahon behind the bat. Despite the large scores the games were very interesting with many sensational plays on both sides. There was a fairly good attendance at both games.

Mohonk Defeats Highland.

Mohonk Lake, Sept. 5.—The base-ball team representing Highland was defeated here Monday 16 to 2, Churchill, a native of the aforesaid village, holding his fellowtownsmen to six hits. These were well scattered and the visitors would have been shut out had it not been for D. Owl dropping Howland's perfect throw to the plate in the eight inning. Highland's infield played very poorly, but the outfield handled many difficult chances with but one miscue. The Owl brothers each poled out four hits out of five trips to the plate.

The visitors, although they were hopelessly defeated maintained a very cheerful attitude throughout the game. Had it not been for this, the game would have lost all possible interest

KINGSTON, N. Y., SEPT. 5, 1916.

Among the most ancient and genial of American traditions is that of southern hospitality. It is something of which much is written and little, if any, ever realized in personal experience. A fair sample of courtesy in the sunny south is the treatment that hecklers in that Nashville meeting attempted to give Charles E. Hughes, the Republican candidate. We doubt very much if any such cheering and hissing in favor of the opposition and against the speaker would have marked a political gathering in the North, no matter how unpopular the views expressed. But this Southern audience did not disconcert the Republican candidate, who, in most ironic vein, thanked his hearers for their exhibition of courtesy and then proceeded to vigorously lambaste the Wilson administration in a manner that challenged the admiration and awakened the latent reasoning powers of the would-be disturbers in the audience. The utter absence of anything of the demagogue in Candidate Hughes is shown in his out-and-out statement at Nashville with regard to his position on arbitration and labor disputes, wherein he stands firmly for justice and the rights of all parties to the controversy rather than for any special class that may be agitating in its own behalf.

Said Mr. Hughes: "I stand for two things, first for the principle of fair, impartial, thorough, candid arbitration, and, second, for legislation on facts according to the necessities of the case, and I am opposed to being dictated to either in the executive department or in Congress by any power on earth before the facts are known and in the absence of the facts." On these two propositions hang all the law and the prophets as to the just and proper settlement of industrial disputes. In the case at Washington we had the Chief Magistrate in the remarkable position of endorsing the demands of a well paid class of workers in advance of arbitration, followed by the lamentable spectacle of Congress being compelled to pass legislation carrying out the executive recommendation. The cause of the eight hour day may have been advanced but the cost of the means to that end must prove a heavy burden upon the American theory of representative government. Mr. Hughes makes it plain that he would not stand for coercion from anybody. No play on his part for any of those millions of votes popularly supposed to be in the gift of the leaders of the four brotherhoods. Instead he says: "I stand firmly for the principle of arbitrating all industrial disputes, and I would not surrender it to anybody in the country!" Here speaks the statesman who knows no expediency other than simple justice for all parties to the controversy. Here is no compromiser with shorter hours for the railroad men in one hand and higher rates for the operators in the other and the old Vanderbilt theory of the public transferred from the railroads to the chief representative of the people themselves. In his Nashville speech, Mr. Hughes has made political history. On that single proposition of arbitration the Republican candidate will win three votes for every one gained by his opponent in truckling to the power of a great labor conspiracy.

The casual manner in which a resident of New Paltz "purchased" Grant's Tomb on Riverside Drive compels admiration. While a stranger to the greater city Mr. Eldor showed an appreciation of its realty values that is remarkable. He knew the property mentioned was a bargain at $1,400 and snapped the proposition up quickly by paying cash. The one error of judgment was in paying over money to a stranger. That is almost always fatal to the most legitimate ambition to get rich quick. Still there is no evidence that the Ulster county man was taking a speculative turn; it may be that he had some magnificent public project in mind whose realization would have put far wealthier men than he in the backfield of philanthropic enterprise. The boldness and breadth of feeling indicated in this incidental acquisition of a great memorial to a National hero reflects most creditably upon the would-be purchaser. His, indeed, is not the circumscribed horizon of the country village. Such a man stands out prominently in any gathering. While the virtues of men like him may not be widely known, their trusting natures are always recognized by the clever gentry of an unscrupulous circle found in all our larger cities, whose members thrive on just such impulses as that which guided the New Paltz man. Experience is a dear teacher but she is the only competent one for such trusting subjects.

LITTLE LAUGHS.

Mr. Roxley (coldly)—"And what are your prospects, may I ask?" Jack Sooter—"Pardon me, sir; I merely love your daughter. I have not been so mercenary as to look you up in Bradstreet's, and therefore I cannot answer your question."—Boston Transcript.

Father—"You say Mildred's wedding will cost two thousand dollars? Now, why not have a simple wedding and give them this money to start their married life with?" Mother—"How can you talk that way? I can forgive almost anything but the fact that you have no sentiment."—Life.

Comforting.

The man getting his hair cut noticed that the barber's dog, which was lying on the floor beside the chair, had his eyes fixed on his master at work.

"Nice dog, that," said the customer.

"He is, sir."

"He seems very fond of watching you cut hair."

"It isn't that sir," explained the barber. "You see, sometimes I make a mistake and snip off a little bit of a customer's ear."—People's Home Journal.

A Repentant Look.

A young man was sitting in a barber's shop, looking at a magazine, when an old farmer, with little knowledge or appreciation of literary people, stepped up behind his chair and looked over his shoulder.

"Who's them?" he inquired, pointing to a group of portraits.

"Well-known authors and playwrights," was the reply.

"Humph!" ejaculated the farmer, contemptuously. 'Jist writin' fellers!' Then he caught sight of an author with a long, solemn face, and his eyes sparkled. "That's the one I like," he said, with decision, putting his finger on the writer's scornful countenance.

"Oh, yes; nearly everyone likes him," agreed the young man. "His humorous writings are—"

"Don't know nothin' 'bout his writin', but I like his face."

"Why so?"

"'Cause he's the only feller that looks like he was sorry for what he'd done."—Chicago Herald.

Particular.

Edward, aged six, was sent to a barber's shop to get his hair cut. The assistant who attended to him had red hair.

"Would you like to have your hair cut like mine?" asked the barber, with a kindly smile.

"No, sir," answered Edward "Cut it some other color, please."—Philadelphia Ledger.

True Notoriety.

A southerner, noted for the liberality of his tips, stopped at a Baltimore hotel where colored porters predominated. His name was speedily known to every member of the serving fraternity, and his every wish anticipated, relates Youth's Companion. Soon after his arrival he sent his card to a friend who made his home in the hotel, but whose temperament happened to be quite the opposite of that of his open-handed caller—retiring, not given to "tipping" or any other form of sociability, and who therefore lived almost unknown to those about him. The old darkey who received the card studied it for a full minute. "Scuse me, Colonel," he said, "but I don't 'sleebe nobody by dat name come here dis mawning." "Of course not! Mr. Blank has lived here for months. You know my name well enough, and I haven't been here a day. Do you mean to say you can't remember a man who has made his home here since some time last winter?" "Scuse me, Colonel, sah," began the old man deferentially, "but you must know, sah"—as if uttering the subtlest compliment—"dat deres gemmans what can make demselves more notorious in one day, sah, den oder gemmans does in a year, sah!"

TOPICS NEW YORK IS TALKING ABOUT

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Sept. 5.—"We have cringed and crawled, we have humiliated ourselves, debauched our government, discredited union labor and settled nothing." In these stinging words Senator Borah expresses the opinion, shared but not voiced by a large number of his more timorous colleagues, he entertains regarding the railway wage bill which President Wilson has just forced congress to pass. That this bill will prove only the beginning and that no man can foresee where the end will be is the opinion of many members of congress. By a curious coincidence, three big New York dailies announced the passing of the railway wage bill with strikingly similar headlines. The World (Democratic) said, "Public Must Pay for 8-hour Law," the Times (Democratic) "Public Must Pay say Railwaymen," the Tribune (Independent-Republican) "Public Must Pay for 8-hour Law." Freight rates will be increased, but probably not until after the election. Then every shipper of wheat, corn, live stock, etc., and every buyer of machinery will learn "who pays the freight."

Unexpected Hostility.

From an unexpected quarter comes severe arraignment of President Wilson because of his course in forcing congress to increase by federal statute the pay of the railway employes. The president of the Texas Farmers' Union has issued a statement declaring that "The people of this nation have, during the past week, passed through the most humiliating experience this nation has ever endured. A few labor union leaders have stood at the portals of congress demanding that the government give them a ransom or they would wreck society. This nation, instead of meeting the situation bravely, has delivered the goods in fear and trembling." The statement goes on to point out that when, two years ago, cotton was selling at 6 cents a pound as a result of the European war, and "poverty stalked through the southland," it was declared that congress could not help. "The organized plowmen pleaded with congress for relief," continues the statement, "but we were told that it would not be constitutional for the government to undertake to fix the price of cotton or to advance money on cotton in storage and that congress was a slow moving body and could not meet emergencies." The opinion of the man in the street seems to be that while President Wilson has made a strenuous effort to gain the labor vote and may in some measure have been successful, he has lost far more than he will gain and that especially has he lost the farmer vote, for when all is said and done it is still true that "It is the farmer who pays the freight."

Edison Will Help Wilson.

Thomas A. Edison, wizard of inventors, has announced his purpose to support Wilson. Mr. Edison would, indeed, be an ingrate if he did not do so. Those who recall the extent to which the navy department under Mr. Wilson patronized Mr. Edison and bought his inventions, going to the extent of fitting navy submarines with Edison batteries even before those batteries had been tested out, will not be surprised at Mr. Edison's determination. When the E-2, in which an Edison battery was installed, generated gas which killed a number of the sailors, there was emphatic protest from officers against the further use of these batteries until they had been further investigated and proved safe, but Secretary Daniels promptly utilized his military authority to suppress the facts and save Mr. Edison from mortification and loss, while no change was made in the policy of using Edison inventions to the utmost in naval construction. Even if the cynical French definition of gratitude, "a lively appreciation of favors to come" be accepted, there is every reason why Thomas A. Edison should support Woodrow Wilson. Mr. Edison doubtless appreciates that "a vote for Wilson is a vote for Daniels."

To a Reader of History.

President Wilson likes to refer to himself as "a historian" and often uses the expression "From my reading of history." A New York historian, whose name is unimportant, asserts that either Mr. Wilson's reading of history has been superficial, or that he lacks the courage to govern his acts according to history's best precedents. He cites a statement of that eminent Democratic secretary of state, Josiah Quincy. Mr. Quincy wrote. 'But to my eye, the path of our duty is as distinct as the Milky Way. It is the path of active preparation, of dignified energy. It is the path of 1776! It consists not in abandoning our rights but in supporting them, as they exist, and where they exist—on the ocean as well as on the land. But I shall be told 'This may lead to war.' I ask, 'Are we now at peace?' Certainly not, unless retiring from insult be peace; unless shrinking under the lash be peace.' The surest way to prevent war is not to fear it. The idea that nothing on earth is so dreadful as war is inculcated too studiously among us. Disgrace is worse! Abandonment of essential rights is worse!"

This same historian also calls Mr. Wilson's attention to a message sent by Secretary Blaine to our minister at Mexico City. The minister, Mr. Morgan, had reported to Washington certain outrages perpetrated on Americans in a remote part of Mexico. He received from Mr. Blaine this cablegram: "Read this to the Minister of Foreign Affairs: Outrages on American citizens must stop, not next week but now. And if they do not, the entire power of this government will be brought to bear to stop them. Blaine." Needless to say, they stopped.

How Carranza Loves Us.

Announcement that General Carranza has restored to its British owners the Mexican railway, while he still retains the National Railways of Mexico, owned chiefly by the Americans has aroused indignation which the administration attempts in some measure to allay by the assurance that the question of Mexican railways will be one of the subjects discussed at the coming conference. The Carranza regime is directly responsible for the great loss incurred by Americans who put their money into the National Railways of Mexico. The forfeiture of the railroad was without even pretense of justification by law, and for two years the owners have struggled to regain possession, only to be treated with as great contempt as Carranza has always shown President Wilson and his every representation. During the years, 1913 and 1914 this railroad earned an annual profit of $350,000, not a large return on the investment, but still something. Then Carranza seized it and in 1915 it paid a deficit of over $29,000,000. The state department has assured the stockholders that the Carranza government would be compelled to make good their loss, at least, but the owners are sceptical of Carranza's financial ability to do that, and even more so of President Wilson's making good his promise to compel Carranza to do so. In every other instance where Carranza has refused with sufficient positiveness to heed the admonitions of Mr. Wilson, the latter has promptly withdrawn his demands, or abandoned them.

"Pitiless Publicity."

President Wilson is so angered by the disclosure of the facts regarding the army in Mexico and especially General Funston's recommendation that Pershing's command be withdrawn that he has appointed a special investigating board and newspaper correspondents are being grilled in an effort to compel them to tell where they got the information. The army officers could not be coerced into denying these reports—which were true—and so some one must be punished for his responsibility for that "pitiless publicity" which Mr. Wilson so enthusiastically advocated before his election and which has been so repugnant to him ever since. His desire, of course, is to cashier some officer out of the service, but if such officer cannot be discovered at least he can make an example of the newspapermen.

An Earlier Civilization.

The discovery of a community house probably a thousand years old in the prehistoric settlement 30 miles west of Santa Fe, New Mexico, has been announced by Mrs. L. I. Wilson. She has charge of an archeological expedition of the Philadelphia museum. A huge sacrificial altar is among the ruins.

Hops as Vegetables.

Hops, which are not recognizable in the form we prefer, were eaten for themselves as a vegetable by the Romans of old and still are by the Bavarians, who choose, rather than the blossoms, the tender top shoots of the plant and prepare them in much the form of an asparagus salad.

SPEED OF THE ZEPPELINS.

In War Trim, Fully Loaded, the Average is Forty Miles an Hour.

Not so many years ago a British engineering expert calculated that the Zeppelin could not attain a speed of thirty miles an hour, as he proved by figures that the ship would collapse under the air pressure. At the time this speed had been actually exceeded by a Zeppelin, says R. P. Hearne in "Zeppelins and Super-Zeppelins."

Today the tendency is to attribute too high a speed to the vessels. In still air it is doubtful if a higher speed than sixty-five miles an hour can be reached, and by the most careful calculation Mr. Hearne has come to the conclusion that the average speed of the modern Zeppelin in war trim is about forty miles an hour, full load.

"Of course," he says, "with a favoring wind the ship may often be running at over sixty miles an hour, and the difficulty of gauging wind speed often causes erroneous estimates of Zeppelin speed by observers on land. In the upper region where an airship is moving there may be a strong current, while near the earth there is a calm."

It is well to note that for a short period a Zeppelin can climb faster than an aeroplane. By throwing out ballast, going full speed ahead, jamming the tail down and shoving the nose up, a Zepp jumps a thousand feet or so in about half a minute. This rate of climb, however, cannot be maintained.

Vegetable Diet.

There is no doubt that human beings can get along very well on a vegetable diet. Some of the strongest men in the world (the Oriental porters) live almost wholly on rice and the various fruits. The horse and the ox, noted for their strength, are purely vegetarian. The old idea that in order to be strong one must devour great stores of meat is no longer considered scientifically orthodox.

MAJOR CHANDLER WRITES OF TEXAS

August Aspects of Border Life Not Calculated to Boost Recruiting—September Even Hotter—Hurricane Added to Excitement and Heat on Long Hikes.

The following extracts from various letters of Major Chandler to friends in Kingston are of general interest in giving an outlook on the camp life of the troops in Texas, especially during the days of the recent hurricane when most of the New York division were out on a ten days' "hike." The headquarters of the First Brigade of which Major Chandler is adjutant general, is at Mission. Of the location and place he says:

Mission is 65 miles west of Brownsville on a one track railroad and a mighty poor one at that. The mails are very irregular. The town has about 5,000 Mexicans and about 200 whites—maybe less. It's a regular Mexican town. It has a drug store, a post office and a bank. The camp is one mile west of Mission. We always go with loaded pistols. The Mexicans are treacherous and no one knows when they will get ugly so we take no chances.

Enclosed find a picture of headquarters. The tent with the flag 6—1 near it is my office. I have two stenographers, one clerk, one motorcycle man, two orderlies and one auto driver here and they all work until they are ready to drop. The work is simply fierce. There are between five and six thousand men in our brigade.

This certainly is an awful country. Talk about mosquitoes! At night if you stick your feet or arms out from the blanket you get bitten. If you keep under, you roast to death. It is some game! And mosquitoes are not the only pest. We are overrun with ants, tarantulas, scorpions and flies. There are literally billions of insects. Millions doesn't express it. Yesterday Lieutenant Green woke up and found a tarantula sitting on his bed looking at him. He says he is going to keep it for a pet.

The heat is something that words cannot describe. When you people at home feel hotter than you ever did before in your life, then try to imagine yourself ten times hotter than that, and you will get some faint idea of the way we feel. It was 120 under a tent fly this morning early. After a walk or ride our clothes look as though we had been in the river. The perspiration pours off the body in streams. It runs into your eyes and blinds you. They say September is the hottest month down here, but if it can beat August it will be going some.

August 15.

We start out tomorrow at 6:30 on a 90 mile hike which will take us anywhere from ten days to two weeks, according to what we happen to run up against. We expect to go north to La Gloria and Sterling Ranches. The whole division will start after us and a continuous march will be made back to the starting point.

August 18.

I didn't expect to get a letter out on this hike but I had to come back to Mission today on some business. I left Sterlings Ranch this morning at 7:30 on "Taps" (Taps is the major's horse), and rode four hours getting in before noon. It was a good long ride, and I finished it in a wind and rain storm, getting soaked through. Am in my own tent now where I have just put on some dry clothes. It is simply pouring.

Just now a wireless came in as follows: "Hurricane approaching coast between Brownsville and Corpus Christi. Expect full force some time tonight. Send warnings with best distribution."

I have immediately sent word to all commanders I could reach. I guess we are in for a bad night. These hurricanes are awful. I will stay here tonight and ride out in the morning. The 14th and headquarters went on to La Gloria this morning. I bet they are a wet lot, though they are due to be there by ten o'clock and will be under their puptents by ten-thirty.

I hope my tent stays up. I just went out and blanketed Taps. He was trembling all over. The horses know very well when a hurricane is coming and they are terror-stricken.

August 19. 6 a. m.

Just a word before I start back to join General Lester at La Gloria. It has been the most awful night you can imagine.

Everything blew down and everybody got wet through. The water is knee deep in camp in some places. I never saw anything like these hurricanes. We have had two already but this was by far the worst. There is no describing one. Great blasts of wind and rain that cut your face like a knife, horses breaking loose in fear and running wild through the storm, mules screaming with terror, everybody up all night hanging on to their tents and property to keep it from blowing away.

Our tents stood, thank the Lord. The Third Regiment came through here last night, so they stayed and occupied the camp of the 14th. That was good for them and for us too.

General Sherman was right when he said that if he owned Hell and Texas, he would sell Texas and live in Hell.

Well, everybody is getting straightened out this morning and things begin to look better.

August 24.

I don't know when this letter will reach you as it is impossible to get near a post office. We have been hiking now for the past nine days and expect to be out six more. The hurricane spoiled all our paper so I got hold of this piece from a man in one of the regiments that followed us.

We have had nothing but rain and mud since leaving Mission. The 71st Infantry gave it up after 3 days and turned back. We passed them with the 14th and have made the farthest hike of anybody. We have lived with hardly any water and have gotten away with it. The hurricane broke all the windmills so the men had to repair the mills and make pumps and put relays of men to carrying water.

Most of the pack mules are too small and I feel sorry for them. Wagons had to be left behind and the men were obliged to carry their own rations. It has been quite an experience. Much harder than in 1911 when I was in Texas with the regulars. The first day a good many men fell out, the next day only two. We are getting hardened for most anything and don't you doubt it.

We have hiked over 70 miles, gone through the worst hurricane they have had in years, dragged wagons, had our autos stuck in the mud, gone hungry and thirsty. The men have walked, pumped, stayed up all night holding tents so they wouldn't be blown down, have been in wet clothes days at a time, but in spite of all this the men are feeling fine. We have had no sickness at all in camp since we started on the hike. Hardly any men fell out by the way. It has been great.

I haven't seen a newspaper in nine days and don't know what's going on in the world.

August 26.

Here we are at Edinburg. Have had a fifteen mile hike today. Most of the mules gave out and the wagons are to be sent from Sterlings Ranch home empty in a day or two. Twelve motor trucks followed us but only three got through. It is now 5:30 p. m., and just enough bacon and hard-tack came in by the three trucks so that the regiment can have something to eat. They have not been fed since breakfast which was at 5:30 this morning. They have been 12 hours without food. The headquarters wagon got through all right so I had something to eat at 2:30 p. m.

At Sterlings Ranch one of the mules on our wagon could not walk and the veterinary said he would have to be left. This would have knocked us out of all prospects for food, so I thought I would just have a look at him. I found he could not move his left hind leg or walk. I examined him all over as I would a patient. They thought the leg was dislocated. I was quite sure it was not, so I thought I would try a little lumbago treatment on him. Not having a cautery I heated a big iron bar in the fire and touched Mr. Mule lightly in the right place. He stood it three times and then he started up a little and began to move his leg. I burned him once more, and then he jumped and made a kick at me. He just missed me but hit the iron bar and sent it flying and it knocked me over. It was a lucky go for me, but he could walk all right after that and went along. Today I went near him and he looked very quiet and peaceful but I noticed him edging a little toward me with his hind quarters so I jumped. He will never forget me. I am crazy about the mules, they are wonderful.

We get into McAllen tomorrow and the next day we'll be back in Mission. Our headquarters is the only unit to go so far all right and we are getting great credit. This is the famous 90 mile hike which is a test of efficiency. The 14th regiment with us is great, and has set a pace that I am afraid the others can't follow.

Reports reach us that the New York papers say that the 14th fell down and that the 71st got through all right. This is not so. The 71st fell down and quit, and went back to their camp. It is funny how the reporters here will twist things. Of course there are many hardships and all that, but don't believe half of the things you read.

Motor trucks are no good in this country, and our 4.7 and 3 inch guns are the biggest we could use here. In Europe where the roads have been built and rebuilt since the time of Julius Caesar it is all very well but not down here.

My health is fine and I take excellent care of myself. I eat nothing but the simplest things. Coffee, bread, boiled potatoes and bacon is about all I eat. Sometimes I take a few onions. I have given up all sugar and jam and feel better for it.

The weather is beyond all description. It rains every single day, and the heat is just as bad as ever. The men in the road are dirty, wet and the toughest looking bunch of citizens you ever saw, but they all feel good and are ready to put up with anything.

The Mexicans are surprised at our army. 170,000 men here on the border and they don't know how many more we have back. It has scared them all, Villa too.

I rather think we have been of great use here and our work is of service in more ways than one. We will come back trained soldiers and it will be the beginning of an army such as the U. S. ought to have. I am glad to be in this game.

The army is a great place to get the right angle on oneself. If you approach it in a spirit of dissatisfaction, thinking always of the discomforts and hardships and pitying yourself, it is awful. But if you use these conditions as a means of self-study, to see whether you are as strong as the next one, to compare your endurance with others of your age, to learn to control your feelings, to make the most of little and to keep up your own spirits and the spirits of those about you, why then the experience is wonderful and does you all kinds of good. To make good in the life here is to make one more confident and self-reliant anywhere.

I am enclosing a jingle by one of my right-hand men at the office. It is to be published in the "Rattler" the paper the boys are getting out here.

1st Brigade Camp.

We have, 'tis said, the model camp
along the Texas border,
It is so neat they almost think that it was made to order.
The bugs all say "we'll stay away,
there's nothing to attract us."
You cannot look around and see a single piece of cactus.
We've scraped and cleaned and laid out roads and worked so blasted hard,
That what was once a desert waste
is now a boulevard.
Our famous homemade roller is the talk for miles around,
A few more days, our roads will look just like the Polo ground.
Our boulevard goes through the camp and ends at Lester Square,
The name just fits the General, he is so just and fair.
The General's scheme of drainage
has kept us high and dry,
It extends down to the village.—Ice cream is all we buy.
The general health percentage is more than nine and plus.
Our ambulance is nothing more than just a riding bus.
And when the sun is at its height in the middle of the day.
You'll find the boys all writing in the good Y. M. C. A.
And now the K. of C. will build the boys another home,
The attractions are so many you never need to roam.
Some nights a week the gay 14th
hold forth with boxing bouts,
It makes the camp boys happy, just listen to their shouts.
The regimental baseball teams are just about made up,
The league will soon be under way
and there will be a cup.
So those who like athletics have every kind of chance,
We are a little shy of girls or we would have a dance.
Of course we have our troubles, our trials and our flies.
But let one come to breakfast and before the mess—he dies.

Paper, Sir?

Experiments with jack pine have shown that it is well suited for making kraft paper. On some of the national forests this tree is used to plant land which is too poor to grow other timber.

Cruelty to a Sissy.

"I'm such," said Cholly Softleigh, with a drawling lisp, "that I don't know what I shall do when I get out of college. Mother wants me to be a minithtah, but I have leaned toward litherath." "Did you ever think of becoming an actress?" she asked cruelly.

Looking Ahead.

"Jump in my car and I'll show you through our residential district," said the proud citizen. "Never m I show that," said the visitor. "My time is limited. Show me a few of your leading cabarets so I will be able to find my way around when I come back here again."

CLAIM CALENDAR FOR COMMISSION

The making up of a calendar for the trial of business claims, claims for indirect damages and claims of riparian owners before Ashokan Business Damage Commission No. 4, composed of William H. Gibson of New York city, Philip Elting of this city and George Deyo of Napanoch, was the occasion of the gathering of eighty-two clients of Brinnier & Canfield and Corporation Counsel Brinnier at the court house this morning. The clients began to gather at the firm's office on John street at an early hour, and at 11 o'clock they marched in a body to the court house, where the commission met to meet the various attorneys who have filed claims.

The attorneys who appeared for claimants were Judge Jenkins, Virgil B. Van Wagonen, Howard Chipp, J. DePuy Hasbrouck, Joseph M. Fowler, County Attorney John W. Eckert for Judge Clearwater, who appeared for more than one hundred claimants; Andrew J. Cook, George Van Etten, Byron L. Davis, Benjamin Rowe, Alfred D. Van Buren, Mayor Palmer Canfield, Jr., Corporation Counsel William D. Brinnier, City Judge William D. Brinnier, Jr., and Robert Howard, of Brinnier & Canfield's offices.

The Brinnier & Canfield clients were the only claimants who appeared personally, the other attorneys not having notified their clients to be present. William McM. Speer appeared for the city of New York.

About eight hundred cases are to be tried before the commission, and notices were served by the city of New York on the claimants for dismissal of their claims. Mr. Speer said that some of the claims had been pending for a number of years, and that the oldest claims ought to be tried first. There was no other way to get the cases tried except to bring the attorneys into court and have him fix specific days for the trial of cases. The commission fixed different weeks from September 18th to the early part of December and will sit almost continuously.

In several cases where the claimants have died, the attorneys who filed claims for them consented to dismissal of the claims.

Some of the attorneys asked that claims for riparian owners be held pending the determination of the claim of Judge Van Etten, which is awaiting decision by the commission, and stipulations to that effect were made.

The week of September 18 was fixed for the trial of claims filed by Byron L. Davis for some Saugerties clients and the trial of cases of other Saugerties claimants.

Cases of Judge Jenkins were set down for trial during the week of November 13.

Business claims represented by Corporation Counsel William D. Brinnier and Brinnier & Canfield were set down for trial during the week of October 17. These include the claims of William C. DeWitt, L. S. Winne & Company, the Canfield Supply Company, Forsyth & Davis, Frederick Gallagher and Frank M. Cronk. The Carrie Burhans claim which recently was referred to Commission No. 4, was also set down for trial during that week.

Riparian claims represented by Corporation Counsel Brinnier and Brinnier & Canfield, were set down for trial during the week of September 25. These include the claims of City Judge William D. Brinnier, Jr., Harold A. Brigham, Augustus Elmendorf, Eugene Frey, Valentine Gaddis, Henrietta Hasbrouck, Christopher Schoentag, Elizabeth Sagendorf and others.

MATTERS BEFORE THE SURROGATE

The will of George J. Berbert of this city has been admitted to probate by Surrogate Gill in the surrogate's court. To his daughter, Florence S. Boehler, the testator bequeaths his electric piano; to his son-in-law, Percy Lowndes, a diamond stud; to his son-in-law, William Boehler, a gold ring; to his grandson, William Boehler, Jr., a gold watch and chain; to his wife, Helen Berbert, his household furniture. The balance of the estate is divided between the wife and two daughters, share and share alike. Joseph Krieger of this city is appointed executor. The will was executed July 6, 1916, and witnessed by William H. Grogan and Edward J. Cullen. The value of the estate is over $5,000 personal property. William H. Grogan appeared for the executor.

The will of Robert Goodgion of the town of Gardiner was admitted to probate. The testator gives his estate to his brother, Francis W. Goodgion, of Rutherford, N. J., and appoints him executor. The will was executed March 28, 1916, and witnessed by Hector Sears and Carrie W. Sears, both of Gardiner. The value of the real estate is $3,000 and the personal property amounts to $200. Hector Sears appeared for the executor.

The matter of proving the will of Esther A. Gurney of the town of Esopus was adjourned to October 2 and a supplemental citation was issued. Frederick Stephan, Jr., appeared for John Gurney, the executor. The value of the real estate is $2,000 and the personal property amounts to $100.

Letters of administration on the estate of Mary Davis of the town of Marbletown were issued to her daughter, Phebe C. Roosa. The value of the real estate is $1,000 and the personal property amounts to $500. Virgil B. Van Wagonen appeared for the administratrix.

In the estate of Charles W. Rhodes of the town of Lloyd, a petition for a judicial settlement by Joseph Schantz and Mary Minard, the administrators, was filed by William E. Wilcox, a creditor, and a citation was issued returnable September 18. Solomon G. Carpenter appeared for the petitioner.

Opportunities Wasted.

At a party one evening a married lady was entertaining the assembled company with an account of their first quarrel, and how, after making it up with one another, her husband had planted a tree in remembrance of it. "If we had only done that," whispered the minister's wife to her husband, "what a splendid avenue we might have had."

Designed Canal Locks.

To be told that Raphael in his spare moments when not painting a Raphael was constructing a locomotive would scarcely surprise you more than to be told that Leonardo da Vinci was a pioneer canal lock builder. But the hand that put upon the walls of that historic church in Milan "The Last Supper" also designed the locks for Milan's canal.

Time to Sign.

When a man almost breaks his neck in trying to dodge a lightning bug while crossing a street car track it is time for him to sign the pledge.

The Real Fun In Life.

The Chicago banker who had intimate personal association with James J. Hill related a little incident which throws light on the character of that great railroad man and builder of civilization, says the Albany Knickerbocker Press. Mr. Hill had commissioned the banker to perform a task which required a journey out of town. Here is the story:

"'How soon do you want this, Mr. Hill?' said I.

"'Right away.'

"I suppose he noticed a fleeting expression in my face, for he asked, 'What's the matter?'

"'Well,' said I, 'my family is across the lake, but that doesn't make any difference. I'll start in the morning and'—

"Mr. Hill held up his right hand and said: 'Hold on! Let me give you a fact born of long experience. All the real fun a fellow has in life is within the four walls that inclose his family. Go across the lake and see your family and start on my job when you get through with the home folks.'"

Seals Can Drown.

It is a curious fact that the fur seal was once a land animal. The baby seals are actually afraid of water. They would drown if thrown into it and have to learn to swim by repeated efforts. When once they have been taught to swim, however, they soon forget to walk.

There are in existence only two important herds of fur seals, one of which has its breeding grounds in the Commander islands, belonging to Russia, the other in the Pribilof islands, belonging to the United States. Of these the latter is much the larger. The Pribilof islands are government property, and thus it happens that the United States government finds itself the owner of by far the most valuable herd of fur seals in the world.—London Mail.

Roads In Olden Days.

A curious illustration of the lack of any systematic authority over the roads in England, even as late as the fifteenth century, is preserved in the records of the manor of Aylesbury. A local miller, named Richard Boose, needed some ramming clay for the repair of his mill. Accordingly—we learn from "Old Country Inns"—his servants dug a great pit in the middle of the road, ten feet wide and eight feet deep, and so left it to become filled with water from the winter rains. A glover from Leighton Buzzard, on his way home from market, fell in and was drowned. Charged with manslaughter, the miller pleaded that he had no place wherein to get the kind of clay he required except on the highroad. He was acquitted.

LOCAL DEATH RECORD.

Recent Deaths and Funerals of Persons in This Vicinity.

Herman Hiob aged 54 years, who was employed about the Burgevin greenhouses on Pearl street, was taken suddenly ill on Monday afternoon and died of a hemorrhage before medical assistance could be secured. Dr. Edwin F. Sibley was summoned but Mr. Hiob was dead before the physician arrivel. Coroner Kelly was notified and issued a death certificate and the body was removed to the family residence on Apple street. Mr. Hiob is survived by his wife and three children. Funeral services will be held from the residence No. 14 Apple street on Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Benjamin Russell, a well known citizen and prosperous farmer of the town, died at his home at Wawarsing, N. Y., on Thursday. The funeral was held Sunday afternoon from his late residence and burial was made beside his wife, who was Harriet Crist, in Wawarsing cemetery. Mr. Russell was the son of the late Henry Russell and Elsie DeWitt his wife and we believe spent his entire life in the town, where he was well and favorably known. Surviving are one son Henry Russell and one daughter Mrs. Ida Russell Snyder both residing in Wawarsing. Sympathy of many friends is extended to the bereaved family.

Philetus Kortright of Kyserike died at his home Sunday, September 3. Mr. Kortright had been ill for several weeks with pernicious anemia. He was born in Pine Bush, near Kerhonkson, in 1846 and on November 12 would have reached his seventieth birthday. He was a son of the late Cornelius and Hannah M. Kortright of Pataukunk. In 1868 Mr. Kortright married Elizabeth D. Brodhead, daughter of Richard and Eliza M. Brodhead of Kyserike. Of this union were two daughters. Elizabeth and Maggie, the latter having died in 1890. During his life Mr. Kortright was always allied with the Republican party and for several years was a member of the town committee of the town of Rochester. Mr. Kortright is survived by his widow and daughter, Mrs. Grant Young, of New York. The funeral will be held at the home Wednesday, September 6, at 2 o'clock.

Albert Misner, one of Ellenville's well known citizens died very suddenly of heart failure at Ulster Lake late Saturday afternoon. Mr. Misner, one of the best known local fishermen had been spending the day with Jacob Weber at the lake and were about ready to return home, when Mr. Misner suddenly fell to the ground while walking to enter the wagon and expired. Mr. Misner was born at Bridgeville, Sullivan county, son of Peter Misner and had resided in Ellenville many years. Owing to an injury to his eyes in the O. & W. Railroad service, Mr. Misner had spent a number of years in charge of the turn table service in Ellenville, where he is so well and favorably known. His age was 70 years, 7 months and 12 days. A man devoted to home and family. A man with a host of friends. Member of Ward Post, G. A. R., who will have charge of the funeral which will be held from his late home on Clinton avenue, Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The service will be in charge of Rev. H. P. Hobson, D. D., of St. John's Episcopal Church and the burial will be made in the Fantinekill cemetery. Surviving are his wife to whom Mr. Misner's death came as a very severe shock, two sons, William and Albert Misner and two daughters, Mrs. Mahlon Smith and Mrs. John Unverzagt. Ellenville friends extend sympathy to the bereaved family.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Sept. 5.—The stock market was full of buying orders on the resumption of business today after the two-day holiday interval, and stocks were in such brisk demand that advances ranging from one to over three points were numerous during the first fifteen minutes trading. Steel common sold at the opening all the way from 97⅞ to 98¼ in different parts of the crowd. The greatest advance in the leading stocks was made in Marine preferred, which had a wide opening, and then rose to 112⅝, a gain of 3⅝ points since last Saturday. Distillers Securities made a gain of 2¼ points to 46¾. Kelly-Springfield rose a point to 82. Union Pacific opened 1⅛ higher at 139 and Southern Pacific 1⅝ higher to 97¼. Southern Railway rose a point to 24¼. Kennicott Copper rose a point to 50½. The minor steel industrials were active, with Colorado Fuel advancing 1⅛ to 49½ and Republic Iron and Steel ⅞ to 54⅞.

Most attention in the late forenoon was attached to the trading in the Marine issues. The preferred stock jumped to 115, and then receded to 114¼. The common, after selling at 45, declined to 44⅜. Steel common reacted from 98⅓ to 97⅜. Anaconda from 86⅛ to 85½. Inspiration from 57¾ to 56⅞, and Studebaker, after selling at 123¾, dropped to 121. The railway issues generally sold off fractionally from the opening. Profit-taking sales were responsible for the reactions. Money loaning at 3 per cent.

Trading in the Marine issues at times in the late forenoon was wild. There was heavy buying of the preferred, which sold at 110½, a gain of over ten points. The common sold as high as 46¾, a gain of over four points. Buying orders for these stocks came from everywhere. Kelly-Springfield Tire sold at 81⅞, a gain of two points. American Can after selling at 61, rose to above 62. Steel Common was firm and rallied from 97⅛ to 97¾. Chandler rose to 108, against 104 at the opening.

The market closed strong. There were recoveries in many of the leading issues in the late dealings, some of them making new high records. The Marine issues were the most active, the common selling at 48½. Mexican Petroleum advanced over four points in all to 108 and Steel Common, after selling at 97⅛, again crossed 98. American Can was strong and advanced to 62⅞. Marine preferred on general buying in large volume ranged during the greater part of the last hour around 119. KNOTTY POINT AMUSES

Very Serious Situation to Australian Baseball Fans.

Clipping From Sydney Paper Published for Benefit of American Bugs—Somebody Pulled an Awful Bone Play.

Doubtless this will be amusing to fans in America, but it seems to be a very serious situation to the fans of Australia. It is what a correspondent from Sydney, Australia, terms a "knotty point" and he asks what the decision would be in "the American game." He furnishes a clipping from a Sydney newspaper in order that the problem may be clearly understood just as it appeared in the Sydney paper, for the benefit of American fans, says Sporting News. Whatever the meeting of umpires decides, the decision of fans in this country will be that Sellars pulled an awful bone when he left his base just because somebody cried "foul." But who would have believed the Australians were up to such tricks—perhaps it was a stray American in the game that did it.

But to the "knotty point." Here it is as outlined in the Sydney clipping:

"A mild sensation was caused at the Richmond-Hawthorn (Victoria) game, arising out of the decision of the umpire (Mr. W. Bowes) in giving Sellars (Hawthorn) out. It appears that the Hawthorn batsman hit the ball into the left field—a runner scoring. Sellars crossed first base.

"While he was midway between first and second base one of the fieldsmen called 'foul,' whereupon Sellars immediately returned home to the batter's box.

"The ball was returned to the pitcher, and Mackay (captain of Richmond), running to first base, appealed to the umpire.

"Though the Hawthorn batter dissented with the decision, he had no option but to retire. However, he asked: 'How was I given out?' and there the trouble starts, for the umpire expressed a certain amount of diffidence, as he was unable to particularize the rule, remarking: 'You are out; but at the moment I cannot point out the rule to you.'

"Sellars, in support of his arguments, states that the call of 'foul' was unfair, inasmuch as the ball was not outside the recognized territory; that he was not advised by the umpire or his coaches as to whether the ball was 'foul' or not, and that it cannot be shown under what rule he was given out.

"There is, however, a diversity of opinion on this matter, and the views advanced by Sellars are by no means shared by the general body of players, who are of the opinion that the Hawthorn player was correctly given out. In view of the dissatisfaction expressed the question will be fully debated at the next meeting of the 'Umpires' association."

JOE KNOCKS FADEAWAY

Joe Jackson of the Sox says:

"If you want to put your arm on the blink, just start fooling with the fadeaway ball.

"I've had one experience, and it cured me. After pitching four or five fadeaways I developed a kink in my elbow and decided to quit experimenting.

"Some fellows have studied the thing and got it down to a fine art. They tell me it doesn't affect their arms, but if they pitched it as steadily as some fellows throw the spitter they wouldn't last long in any league."

of pitching double-headers. McGinnity won one of two games he pitched in one day for his Butte (Mont.) team recently. Butte is a big money maker this season and McGinnity is getting back a good deal of the $27,000 he says he lost at Tacoma.

Marjorie had a red-and-yellow clown suit given her and thought it would be great fun to surprise mamma and papa, but her big brother put the suit on and got ahead of her, so Marjorie put in a tearful time for several minutes, when she came to me and said, "Mamma, won't you please forget the color?" thinking she might still surprise us as she first planned.—Chicago Tribune.

MENKE'S DAILY SPORTING LETTER

(By Frank G. Menke.)

New York, Sept. 5.—The office boy ambled into the workshop and said:

"Guy outside to see yuh."

"Who is he?"

"How should I know," responded the junior hireling "I didn't ask him. I ain't one of those nos-y persons, I ain't."

"But you should have asked him," we rebuked.

"Well, he ain't no prize fighter and he don't look like no bill collector."

"Oh, that's different; let him in."

A minute or two later a huge goofer steamed up to the desk and began:

"My name is Eastern Football. I just got back and I'd ike to get a little writeup."

"About what?"

"About what I'm gonna do—and ain't gonna do—this Fall," was the reply. "One of the things I ain't gonna do is let that Yale crowd make such a joke of me as they did the last two years. Gosh, that was fierce. I never was so humiliated in all my career as up in New Haven last year. Wasn't it terrible?"

"It was—and a bit more."

Yale Conditions Changed.

"Well, it ain't gonna happen again," said our visitor. "Tad Jones is on the job up there now. He's a good coach. That'll help some, but the greatest help will be that the frat stuff don't go anymore. You know it was something of a rule up there in Yale in 1914 and 1915 that if you didn't belong to a certain secret society you couldn't get on the team, no matter how good a player you were. That's why things went on the blink at Yale. But it ain't gonna be so no more."

"Glad to hear it. And how about Harvard?"

"Harvard? Well, oh, it will be there or thereabouts, don't you worry. Of course, Brickley, Mahan, King, Hardwick and the rest of that gang that made history up there for a few years have gone. But ol' Perc' Haughton is still on the job. And Perc', y'no, is some coach."

"Princeton?" we asked.

"They've got what can be called the nucleus of a fine team up there," answered the visitor. "I wouldn't be surprised to see those Tigers right up in the championship fight. You know the team wasn't so heavily hit by graduations and that means they've got some cracking players left."

Pitt Prospects Bright.

"What do you think of the Pittsburgh outlook?"

"Bright—very bright. Pitt, you know went through the 1914 season without suffering defeat and lost only one game in 1915, which is quite a record. 'Pop' Warner has some great material left for this year's team. Pitt is going to put its one year residence rule into effect this fall and that isn't going to hurt 'em any. They've got some great veterans."

"Cornell?"

"They're a problem, those Ithaca fellows. Charlie Barrett, you know, was the bird who helped Cornell during the past two years. His great playing last fall helped the team go through the season without suffering defeat. But now 'Chuck' has gone. Some folks say that Cornell was a 'one-man' team. They predict that without Barrett this season the Red and White team isn't going to amount to very much. But don't bet too much on that dope. Cornell's going to be in the fight, all right."

"Pennsylvania?"

"It's up to Bob Folwell there. Pennsy last season was an awful joke. Many thought it was the fault of the coaches. Others said the players weren't worth a darn. This year will tell the story. Personally, I think that Pennsy is going to be heard. Oh, no, not because it has some wonderful raw material, because it hasn't. But I'm banking on Folwell. He performed miracles at W. & J. and I regard him as one of the greatest coaches in America today."

"Gotta Watch Syracuse."

"Syracuse?"

"Gotta watch those babies. They've got a good coach and have some great material. Lot of veterans from the strong team of last year and some newcomers who promise to star. Yep, ya gotta keep your peepers on that Orange crowd."

"How about Dartmouth?"

"They're a puzzle to me," responded Football. "Used to have great teams, but last year's wasn't much good. Haven't got a real line on 'em this year. Might come through with one of the old time elevens, but I fear they will not."

"What do you think of Washington & Jefferson's chances since Folwell has gone?"

"Hard to dope out those boys, too. Got some good material, but not much of it. Small college—only about 400 students. Folwell's miracle work put W. & J. on the map and enabled them to beat up Yale quite frequently. But Bob's gone. Sol Metzger's there. That boy knows football from A to Z. Made a great record last year at West Virginia. Might do the same at W. & J.; might even go so far as to duplicate Folwell's wonderful work.

Army and Navy Puzzle.

"How about the Army and Navy?"

"Oh, you never can tell about those boys. Hard job to 'dope' them out. Maybe they'll have great teams, but most likely they won't."

Eastern Football arose from the chair he occupied, donned his headgear and prepared to depart.

"Well, I guess I'll be beating it," he said. "Hope you'll find room to give me a little writeup, now that I'm back. Think you will?"

"Yep! Au revoir. And by the way, send in your brother, Western Football, will you? Like to give him a little publicity too."

"Sure; I'll have him drop around next week. Bye, bye."

Hot Liners.

(By Frank G. Menke).

Both races have now tightened to the breaking point of enthusiasm. After holding the lead practically all year the Dodgers were forced to give way to the Braves.

But the Dodgers still have hopes. They play the Giants a series beginning today, while the Phillies and Braves tackle one another. In the meantime the shadow of the jungle is hovering over the Red Sox. The Tigers are only ten points behind the world's champions and going strong.

The Red Sox must face a battery of A-1 western clubs on their trip to the land of the Setting Sun, while the Tigers camp on their own land to face the weaker easterners.

Christy Mathewson and Minor Brown had an old-time battle yesterday. But the veterans did not show the effectiveness of old. 33 hits were made off them.

The White Sox are also looming up strong in the pennant fight. The double victory over the Browns boosted them up to within 21 points of the Red Sox.

Labor Day Ring Battles.

Freddie Welsh won the decision over Charley White in 20 rounds at Colorado Springs.

Joe Jeannette knocked out Jack Hubbard in five rounds at Watertown, N. Y.

Johnny Kilbane knocked out George Chaney in the third round at Cedar Point, Ohio.

Battling Levinsky beat K. O. Brown in ten rounds at East Chicago, Ill.

Frankie Russell knocked out Joe Mandot in fourteen rounds at New Orleans.

Kid Williams beat Frankie Brown in six rounds at Baltimore.

Johnny Griffiths beat Joe Rivers in 12 rounds at Canton, Ohio.

Frankie Whitmore and Frankie Callahan fought a ten round draw at Atlanta, Ga.

Benny Kaufman won from Johnny Ertle in six rounds at Philadelphia.

"Spike" Kelly beat Jack Duffy in ten rounds at Racine, Wis.

Young Denny knocked out Sailor Jerabek in the first round at St. Louis.

The Capitol Dome.

The original dome of the capitol in Washington was made of wood, covered with copper.

SAUGERTIES.

Saugerties, Sept. 5.—Labor Day in Saugerties was observed by a cessation of business in the manufacturing establishments. As no special preparation was made for its celebration automobile rides, picnics and excursions were enjoyed. Automobile travel was especially heavy and several arrests for traffic violations were made. Labor Day is supposed to be the beginning of the ending of the summer boarding business. Consequently the West Shore Railroad and the steamers Ulster and Ida of the Saugerties and New York Steamboat Company had between 500 and 600 passengers for New York city last night.

Dr. Dodling and wife, daughter, Margaret, and Marian Bruckner left town on Monday on an automobile trip, which will include Binghamton, Elmira, Buffalo and Niagara Falls, returning home on Saturday.

The Boy Scouts of Saugerties, who have been camping at Palenville for the past week, broke camp yesterday and hiked home.

Snyder Hose Co. expect their new motor fire truck on or about September 15th.

Misses Margaret Ohley and Henrietta Tetzloff have returned from a vacation spent in Bridgeport, Conn.

Charles Bogert of New York city spent the week end with friends in town.

Misses Jennie Archer and Mildred Stitt of Mount Vernon are guests of Miss Rhena Disbrow on Market street.

Miss Alice McCormick of New York city spent the week end with her mother on Theodore Place.

Snyder Hose Co. will hold their regular monthly meeting tonight at Firemen's Hall.

Low Temperature.

The lowest known temperature ever observed by competent scientists was at Werchojansk, Siberia, Jan. 15, 1885, when a minimum reading of minus 93.4 degrees Fahrenheit was registered. The monthly mean temperature for January at Jakutz, Siberia, is minus 43.8 degrees.

Power in Miniature.

That he can produce one horsepower for each pound his engine weighs is the assertion of the French inventor of a motor depending upon the explosive force of gunpowder for power.

An Alibi.

A mother told her little boy that when he was bad he wasn't her little boy, but the bad man's boy. So one day, while he was playing in the yard, he pulled up some of the neighbor's flowers, and when she saw him next time she said, "Harry, who pulled up my flowers?" He said, "Well, it isn't me now, but it was when I was the bad man's boy."

A Good Man.

Put an end once for all to this discussion of what a good man should be and be one.—Marcus Aurelius.

Appreciation vs. Thanks.

A boy friend of mine, when delivering milk one day took a little three-year-old boy along with him. As they approached one of the customers the lady was giving her children some cookies. Seeing the little fellow, she gave him a cooky also. My boy friend asked him, "What do you say to the lady?" And he said, "I want another one."—Cleveland Leader.
